1. Introduction

Al Shad Diabetes & Liver Poly Clinic is well known polyclinic in the area. At present the visitors or patients take their appointments through telephone and then visit the clinic. If they could not take an appointment, then they must wait for long in the queue to get their turn. If the phone is busy then they must call in again and again, till they get connected

To address that problem, we want to develop a website, that will be available 24/7 and they can get their appointments at any time. Further we also provide them some educational material like articles and videos for their health care.

2. Implementation

---

1. Create a dist folder
2. Adding dist folder to .gitignore
3. Install rimraf folder
4. Setup folder and add script into the module file package.json
5. Copy fonts into destination folder
6. Add script into package.json file to copy files.
7. Compressing images by script imagein into package.json
8. Use min and add its script to package.json
9. Create a build script in the package.json file.

3. Justification

In the current situation of pandemic medical importance is been realized more than ever before. Considering that we decided to develop a project where clients/patients can have minimum physical interaction with outside world. This app will also help them to get their appoints without physical visits.
